

Science of Cognition: Bridging Gaps between Cognitive Linguistics and Experimental Psychology

The workshop on cognitive psychology at the 9th International Conference
"Cognitive Modeling in Linguistics – 2007"
(Sofia, Bulgaria)

Call for Papers

Important Dates

- ❑ Submission deadline: May 15, 2007
- ❑ Notification of acceptance: June 1, 2007
- ❑ Deadline for final papers: June 18, 2007

Conference dates: July 28 - August 3, 2007

The date of the workshop will be announced after the final version of the conference schedule is completed.

Workshop Chair:

Ekaterina V. Pechenkova, Lomonosov Moscow State University

The workshop is aimed at the interdisciplinary discussion of investigations in the broad field of cognition and language. Psychologists, linguists and computer scientists interested in interdisciplinary co-operation and ready to present their results to colleagues from neighboring disciplines are encouraged to participate in the workshop.

Topics:

- Language and cognition
- Thinking and problem solving
- Human decision making
- Attention and language processing
- Learning, memory and speech
- Knowledge representation and acquisition
- Language and perception
- Language and spatial cognition
-
- Mental models, metacognition and the theory of mind
- Culture and cognition
- Problems of bilingualism
- Second language acquisition
- Methods of experimental psychology in linguistics
- Methods of linguistics in psychology

For further details, including the paper style and structure guidelines, please visit the conference website: <http://www.cml.msisu.ru>.

Please address any questions concerning the workshop and submit papers to Ekaterina Pechenkova by e-mail: evp_lab@cs.msu.su.